

Dear Justine,

As we approach the Fourth of July, we celebrate not just independence—but inner freedom. The kind of freedom that comes from aligning with your truth, releasing what no longer serves, and bravely stepping into who you're becoming.

July is a powerful time to pause, reflect, and realign. We're halfway through the year... and there's still so much possibility ahead.

Mid-Year Reset: Realigning Your Path

Whether you feel completely off-track or deeply rooted in your vision, now is the perfect moment to reset.

Here are three practices to support your realignment:

Reflect:

What intentions did you set at the beginning of the year?
What have you learned about yourself since then?

Journal Prompts for Clarity:

- What feels in alignment right now?
- What am I ready to release?
- What am I ready to receive?
- What would success feel like by year's end?

Refine:

Choose 1–3 focus areas for the next 90 days. Create small, inspired actions that support your expansion.
